

STERLING

Clocks on, Locks on

Sterling suggests ways to keep the garden and patio protected this spring.

As the clocks are put forward to welcome the warmer weather, security round the home should remain a priority. With lawn mowers, trimmers, ladders and strimmers out in the garden, the possibility for them going walkabout begins to rise. To keep your gardening equipment safe, Sterling has put together these handy hints to stay secure this spring.

Securing the shed is a synch with keyed alike locks. Sterling recommends using keyed alike laminated padlocks (rrp£XX) to keep the entire garden safe. Built to withstand the weather, these locks conveniently have the one key to secure many different destinations. With Sterling keyed alike locks you can secure the shed, gates and garage and only use the one key, eliminating the need to endlessly search for the right key.

With children getting out and playing in the garden, their safety should be assured. To keep ladders from landing on your little ones, secure all equipment with a double looped cable and lock. The Sterling double looped cables (rrp£XX) are built tough and versatile enough to use with bikes, barrows, trailers and trikes. They also come with a protective sleeve to prevent scratching precious paint work.

Just incase the summer doesn't come, Sterling recommends locking up with a weatherproof padlock (rrp£X). Weatherproof padlocks are perfect for use outdoors and can stand up to the (sometimes) unpredictable British weather.
