Sterling Locks launches new aluminium combination padlocks

Sterling Locks is always looking for new ways to bring value padlocks to market and these new Anodised Aluminium Combination Padlocks look great, lock securely and as always from Sterling, come at a great price. Available in two sizes of 30mm – 3 dial (RRP ex VAT £5.00) and 40mm – 4 dial (RRP ext Vat £7.08), these are just another in a series of incredibly good value products being launched by Sterling Locks this year.

Anodised aluminium is a great material for creating a really attractive padlock providing a textured metalised look. It also creates padlocks that are very strong and corrosion resistant. Sterling's aluminium padlocks feature combination dials giving a key-free solution that's safe and secure, plus the choice of four colour-ways across the range. In today's market the option of bright, tactile contemporary padlocks that are as safe as their traditional brass counter-part is always going to be popular. The ideal alternative to brass or zinc, these padlocks have a light feel that makes them great for taking to school, or the gym, for back packs or on suitcases – and all at a price that won't weigh the customer down!

Retailers will be happy to hear that these padlocks partner a great price with a good margin. And retailers know they can also rely on Sterling's usual good service.
