

Ease Autumn Anxieties: Stay Safe with Sterling!

Press Release

As the clocks go back not only does darkness arrive earlier but it also gets wetter and windier. The last place you want to leave your post in these conditions is outside. But for many, there simply isn't a choice. Country dwellers in rural areas have long tracks which posties are unlikely to venture down. In the city, more homes are being protected by external gates and other security measures. This can mean the postman never reaches the front door. At best you might get soggy letters, at worst you may never get them at all.

The answer is a good, secure post box, to keep the weather out and the post in. A postbox also stops post building up if you're away, a sure sign of an unoccupied house.

The good news is that Post Boxes (ssp from £24.99) from Sterling are practical and pretty good looking. With a choice of three different ranges and five different colours, not to mention a stainless steel finish, there is one for every situation. With Sterling's expertise stemming from decades of selling security solutions, Sterling postboxes can be relied on for performance.

School's Back Too!

Want to make sure the children are never left on the doorstep? There are many reasons from bad traffic to late working and misplaced bags or lost keys. The answer is KeyMinder® (ssp around £20), a discreet and safe way to make sure a key is always where it's needed. A four digit combination lock ensures that only the right people have access. So there will always be a key available when the kids – or even an adult – need to get in.

Sterling is committed to selling quality products at great value prices. To find out more about the Sterling range, or for stockist information, call 0113 250 3603 or visit www.sterlinglocks.com. Ends
