

Sunshine Sales with Cigarette Bins from Sterling

The smoking ban is now two years old, and more and more people are looking to replace their tired, damaged cigarette bins. Cigarette litter is not only ugly and off-putting, it can also be a fire risk. Ever since the smoking ban, a place to dispose of cigarette butts has become a must for all kinds of buildings, from farms to factories or office blocks to tower blocks. But now many of the disposal bins need replacing. This year retailers can see extra summer sales (and maybe make friends with the local landlord!) with stylish Cigarette Bins from Sterling.

Sterling's Cigarette Bins are wall mounting with a removable collection box; perfect for ensuring patrons discard their butts in the right place. A sloping upper face means that nothing can be left resting on top, encouraging proper waste disposal.

Available in two different styles, they are made from tough galvanised steel with a black powder coating or the larger style also has a shining Stainless Steel option.

Whatever the finish, they offer long-lasting protection from the elements, meaning they will look good for years to come.
