

Winter Worries Left Out in the Cold

Lock up for the Long Nights with Sterling

With the clocks going back the gathering gloom comes earlier, and the nights get colder and crisper in the run up to winter. It's time to think about battening down the hatches and shutting out the cold, but the dark evenings can also provide great cover for thieves. Even if the house is firmly secured, what's going on outside? Fortunately, it's easy to beat the burglars on a budget with a helping hand from Sterling.

In the darkness, sheds and outbuildings are more vulnerable than ever, and so is anything left on the patio! A good padlock on the shed door is essential, and teamed with a strong hasp and staple will make sure the shed stays shut. Inside the shed, use Link & Lock locking cables to join heavier items together, making them much harder to cart off. Link & Lock is also ideal for securing patio furniture and equipment that stays outside.

New from Sterling are two easy-to-install and affordable Wireless Alarm Systems. Ideal for sheds and outbuildings, the Stand Alone Wireless Alarms offer one-shot protection that won't let you down. There is a choice of movement detectors or Door / Window detectors, and code remote disarm, and with detectors starting from £12.99 there has never been an easier and more cost-conscious way to protect your property!

But for integrated home protection, Sterling now offers the 400 Series Wireless Alarm System. Controlled from a central console, up to 16 detectors can be added which can cover outbuildings as well as inside the home. One of the most affordable alarm systems on the Market, the Sterling system is perfect for DIY installation, and can be expanded to suit your needs.
