

Alarms Needn't Be Alarming The Sterling Wireless Way

Longer nights and rising crime are reminders that home security is more important than ever. Everyone wants to protect against intruders – and an alarm system is one of the best ways to scare them off! But alarm systems for the house and garden can be expensive to buy and complicated to set up. They can even require specialist installation, meaning even more money. But now setting up an alarm system is simple and suits every pocket, with two new great value electronic security ranges from Sterling.

Sterling Stand Alone Wireless Alarms make protecting your home, garden or shed simple as can be. Designed to protect individual areas, these Very Loud (130dB) alarms are available to activate when movement is detected or when a door or window is opened. They come supplied with either a remote key fob to arm/disarm or a 4-digit code. Installation is as simple as mounting on a wall – or placing on a flat surface!

The Sterling 400 Wireless Alarm System is a fully-integrated system. This means it can cover several places at once with one central control box to arm/disarm the units. One of the most affordable alarm systems around, the starter kit includes one movement detector and one Door/Window detector.

Additional detectors up to a maximum of 16 can be added for full coverage of your home and outbuildings, and the wirefree technology means that installing them is simple! Radio communication to the control panel means that it is simply a matter of attaching new detectors where you want them. The system is mains powered, but with a battery back-up just in case. The 4-digit keypad central unit is wall mounting or fully portable, so it can be placed anywhere. The system can be set to either alarm or alert mode, meaning that there is a chime or LED flash when a detector is activated.

Built to a high quality and priced competitively, the Sterling alarm systems are the simple solution for anyone who wants a security system, but doesn't want to break the bank.
